Offers a visionary guide to self-knowledge, revealing the mysteries of the ancient female oral tradition.

Nonlinear parameter optimization in least squares was studied from a point of view of differential geometry. Properties of curvilinear coordinates, scale factors and curvature were investigated. Parameters of the condition function were expressed as functions of algorithm parameters to generalize the formulas. The analysis of the convergence process cumulated in the development of procedures that accelerate convergence. Scale factors were used as weights to the differential correction vector to improve the direction of search. A method to correct for curvature, called back projection method, was developed. Use was made of the tangent plane on which the path of search on the fitting surface was projected. Deviations from the original direction were corrected by optimizing the angle of deviation and the step factor. The correspondence between rate of convergence and curvature of the path of search was illustrated with an example. A small geodesic curvature at the starting point indicates fast convergence. Curvature properties of the parametric curves appeared to be of more influence than those of the fitting surface. To avoid heavy oscillation of intermediate parameter values a method was developed that required the intermediate points to be the foot of a perpendicular from the terminal point of intermediate observation vectors thus producing paths of controlled approach. Since condition functions may have a complicated structure in that they can be implicit functions, sequential functions or can consist of mathematical models involving alternative functions, it was treated how first derivatives can be calculated and programmed systematically for these functions. Methods introduced were made operational by means of a FORTRAN program. A description of the use of the subprograms and instructions to modify the main program to suit the various algorithms and procedures developed are given in the Appendices.

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is issuing this interim final rule in order to implement this mandate. This interim final rule adopts the categories of information that will be collected and displayed as Web portal content, and the data we will require from issuers and request from States, associations, and high risk pools in order to create this content. This book contains: - The complete text of the Health Care Reform Insurance Web Portal Requirements (US Department of Health and Human Services Regulation) (HHS) (2018 Edition) - A table of contents with the page number of each section

The second edition of this popular title provides both a narrative and analysis of the relationship between Great Britain and Ireland, from its origins and the Act of Union in 1800 to the Anglo Irish settlement in 1922. Important events such as the Great Famine and the Easter Rising are explained, and key figures such as Parnell, Gladstone and O'Connell are assessed. This is an essential text for students studying this period to aid understanding of the complex but compelling issues that arose in Ireland and Britain during this period. Throughout the book, key dates, terms and issues are highlighted, and historical interpretations of key debates are outlined. Summary diagrams are included to consolidate knowledge and understanding of the period, and exam style questions and tips for each examination board provide the opportunity to develop exam skills.

Based on the competition of international production networks, the pressure to increase the efficiency of production systems has increased significantly. In addition, the number of technical components in many products and as a consequence also the requirements for corresponding assembly processes and logistics processes increases. International logistics networks require corresponding logistics concepts. These requirements can be managed only by using appropriate Digital Factory tools in the context of a product lifecycle management environment, which allows reusing data, supports an effective cooperation between different departments, and provides up-to-date and relevant data to every user who needs it. Simulating the complete material flow including all relevant production, storage, and transport activities is recognized as a key component of the Digital Factory in the industry and as of today widely used and accepted. Cutting inventory and throughput time by 20–60% and enhancing the productivity of existing production facilities by 15–20% can be achieved in real-life projects.
