Bunkai: The Marriage of Kata and Kumite. Bunkai, "application," is a formal class of karate exercise in which the practitioner studies, with an simulated attacker, the meaning of the individual (and sometimes combined) movements that go together to make up kata. In that sense, we can think of bunkai as the marriage of kata and kumite, as shown in the picture below.

Understanding Kata And Its Relationship To Bunkai | GKR Karate

When used in the context of Karate, bunkai symbolizes the whole process of breaking down the movements of a kata to understand how the techniques can be applied in self-defense. In other words, bunkai is the essence of kata. You see, kata was never meant to be used as a standalone solo exercise. That's a modern phenomenon.

Bunkai (崩解), literally meaning "analysis" or "disassembly", is a term used in Japanese martial arts referring to the application of fighting techniques extracted from the moves of a "form"(kata). Bunkai is usually performed with a partner or a group of partners which execute predefined attacks, and the student performing the kata responds with defenses, counterattacks, or other actions, based on a part of the kata. This allows the student in the middle to understand what the movements in ...
